

Spouse's Call
Maxwell Air Force Base, AL – January 24, 2011

Event Report

MSCCN's, LaToya Jackson (right) pictured with Mrs. Lynn Peck

Lt. General Allen Peck, Commander Air University, Maxwell AFB, and his wife Lynn, personally invited the MSCCN to attend Maxwell AFB "Spouse's Call" on January 24, 2011. The Spouse's Call was hosted by Air University and the 42nd Air Base Wing under the command of Col. Brian Killough and his wife, Sandi. Mrs. Peck was a key speaker at this Spouse's Call.

Spouse's Call was an informational luncheon which included different support services that spouses may have heard of but really do not know exactly what it is that they actually do. La'Toya herself was unaware of many of the services that Family Readiness provided. Several spouses stopped by and asked questions about MSCCN and wanted information about our virtual employment opportunities.

The event was a huge success. It is great to see that the families at Maxwell Gunter have an amazing command to support and care about them. By listening to both Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Killough, La'Toya realized that they also face and understand the obstacles of being a military spouse and want to take the time to educate spouses to not only better themselves but to soak up knowledge to share with fellow spouses.

Being an enlisted spouse for 14 years, La'Toya never felt so understood and appreciated as she did at this event. Listening to the Command express how they felt about spouses and how they understood what spouses face on a day-to-day basis was truly inspirational for La'Toya.

MSCCN thanks Maxwell Air Force Base for this opportunity and looks forward to working more closely with Mrs. Peck and attending more events there.