

Beth Conlin

SENIOR PROGRAM MANAGER- MILITARY
SPOUSE PROGRAMS AT AMAZON

An Army Spouse, Beth has a strong background in sales, business development, and Military Spouse Employment. After 10 years working in the private sector, an overseas PCS to Germany forced her to quit her dream job and get more creative about her career and has since been a vocal advocate, corporate steward, and problem solver for military spouse employment. From educating employers, working with law makers, and providing data around the value military spouses bring to the workforce, Beth has intimate working knowledge of the obstacles military spouses face and has developed solutions to help reduce employment challenges. Currently directing over a $1 million program that has delivered nearly $50 million in economic impact to locally communities.

Recognized as a subject matter expert she has contributed to panel discussions, authored op-eds, and been called on to support various members of Congress with military spouse initiatives. Now with Amazon, Beth uses her expertise and experience to build internal programs in one of the world's largest companies, work with lawmakers, industry, and other non-profit organizations to make military spouse unemployment an issue of the past and help military families thrive. Beth holds an MBA from Chaminade University of Honolulu and a BS in Communications from the University of Idaho.
